Baptized by Spirit and Fire

We must not simply live in Jesus Christ. Rather he himself must be our life and must live in us. He must live in us with his spirit, with his grace, with the impression of his mysteries, with the application of his merits, with the efficacy of his sacraments, above all with the sacrament of his Body and Blood so that we can say with the Apostle: yet I live, no longer I, but Christ lives in me (Gal 2:20). This means that Christ lives in our heart and reigns there like a master and king. It means that Christ's spirit expands and grows in us and that, like life-giving heat, Christ encompasses us, sets everything right again, warms everything, sanctifies everything, and divinizes everything. He loves with our heart, thinks with our mind, speaks with our tongue, and works with our hands. For him we consume ourselves; for his glory we study; with his grace we perform our duties; for love of him we bear pain; to give him pleasure we enjoy pastimes and partake of nourishment itself. His throne is established in the heart of every Christian: The kingdom of God is in your midst (Lk 17:21).

A coin must have the image of the sovereign; otherwise it would not be worth anything and could not circulate in the marketplace. In the same way, the works of Christians cannot earn heaven because nothing pleases the eternal Father if it does not display the image of his Son and does not, in some way, bear his likeness.
